Q: A plane crashed into a snow forest. Some passengers survived, some died. The passengers that survived have come together and are struggling to survive. We found some new hope because of the situation that changed. We've found other people, well.. it's just a village that is cut off from society, that has almost no electricity, and no wifi/internet. They actually don't want to help us, we asked them multiple times but they just got annoyed. They usually wouldn't help us, but because they need information that they don't have yet, due to being cut off from society, they gave us a chance. They want us to provide them with information. For example: How to make guns for survival, up to drugs for their small "hospital". After they receive the information from one of us, they will give us food, a place to sleep, or something else. The more information we provide them with, the better. The humans that survived are: Colin - An experienced programmer that knows how to make the best scripts and u
